

July 25, 2009

Webber: Weinberg 'squeezed struggling families with property tax increases'

By Editor

Assemblyman Jay Webber (R-Morris Plains), the Republican State Chairman, dismissed Democratic Lt. Governor candidate Loretta Weinberg as a tax and spend liberal but said the fall election will be nothing more than a referendum on Jon Corzine's four years as Governor.

"As someone who has endorsed and been a vote for Governor Corzine's failed policies, Senator Weinberg has squeezed struggling families with property tax increases and done nothing to bring jobs back to the state," said Webber. "This election is and will continue to be about Governor Corzine's record. The choice for New Jerseyans this November could not be clearer - a failed governor and his liberal legislative ally or a team of outsiders who will change Trenton for the better, create jobs, and get our state back on track."